Letter from Fanquier.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria GAZETTE.]
MARSHALL, May 26th.—Under the genial influence of May showers which have been continuous for nearly a month, our county never presented a more lovely aspect. Cool nights, require fires to be kept up. Some farmers are waiting to finish corn planting.

The colored people enjoyed the Whit-Monday holiday and our small boys look forward to theirs; in the meanwhile they enjoy fishing.

Bethel academy, Mr. Farcron's classical school at Belmont and the private schools will close early in June. Picnics and the annual bush meeting of the Good Templars will follow. The latter will be held at Dela-plane the second Tuesday in August. Mrs. S. E. Bailey, of Arlington, Va., lectured on Thursday night, last week, at the Baptist church, on temperance. She made a strong appeal to the young to become out and out 'dries."

Our citizens appear to take small stock in politics. A motto for Blaine's party has been suggested, viz: "G. G. G." greed, grasp and gain. It is evident that his admirers seek to have a big boom prepared for him on his return from Europe, and to win for him an "eagle's nest" in Washington city. The voters, however, cannot forget that the reckless extravagance of the republican party has helped to squander the people's money and to make the 200 failures of business firms in the United States and to create sectional strife against which Washington, in his farewell address, warned his countrymen, and General Grant opposed by his utterance, "Let us have peace."

For lack of news is appended a scrap from Mr. R. H. Wyeth's letter from Custer coun-ty, Montana, May 8, 1888, descriptive of how people live in that remote territory. He says: The tepees or wigwams of the Indians are wonderful in construction. The women are models in modesty and purity. Phillie, a cowboy, put his arm around a young squaw and she jabbed an awl into his arm, which cooled him immediately, much to our amusement. This is a most wonderful country; the State is well named for it is broken up into most fertile valleys and arid "buttes," this is pronounced beuttes. It has a future before it as the natural advantages are increased a thousand fold by irrigation which is easily done in many places and the sage brush dies where water comes, so there is little grubbing, and briers are unknown. Our greatest pest is "skunks" which every night bother us, and the boys get their six shooters and chase them in the moonlight.

The Indian farmer, who teaches the Rothwell Indians how to farm, was here yester-day and giving out of seed he asked "Black "Black Eagle" to go to the agency and get some.
"Black Eagle" started and not taking any rest got back this morning, having travelled 102 miles inside of twelve hours, part on horse and part on foot. He is the finest specimen of an Indian I have seen except "Red Bird." Black Eagle is about six feet two inches and large; he is about fortyfive and a firm friend of Ed's, who will hav him in charge of the ranch. Woe betide any intruder he catches, as such is esteemed a sacred trust and he would not hesitate to kill his son should he molest the property.

The outlook for cattle is splendid, we have had good rains at night and a rather bot sun, so the grass is springing up-on my side through the hills yesterday I counted three herds of cattle-every cow had a calf

Letter from Kansas.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] ARGENTINE, Kan., May 26, 1888 .- This thriving young city of 3,000 souls is situated on the south bank of the Kansas river, within fifteen minutes ride of Kansas City. The transfer depot and the reading rooms of the Sante Fe railroad are located at this point. The road does a business of no small importance. Over 600 men are employed by the Santa Fe Company, and it is not a hard matter to find a Virginian or two out of this number. The round house, coal chute, and something like 12 miles of side track and 70,000 or 80,000 feet of platform will give your readers some idea of how and where these men are employed. The Kansas Smelting and Refining Company, located here in 1880, employs over 400 men, and its work never ceases. Day and night are only known by the change of their gangs of men The ore and bullion is received from the mining districts of the mountains and is here crushed, separated and refined. works have twenty acres of land, the necessary buildings, offices, guard houses, sheds dwellings, etcetera, cover nearly all the ground.

With all the advantages of a thriving town, with a rapid sale of property and advance in values, and in view of its nearness to Kansas City, with her concentration of railroads, there is little doubt but that in a short time Argentine will be a lot and parcel of the "Queen City of the West." This has been an exceptionally backward spring in Kansas. Overcoats and ladies' furs, after the campbor had been applied and laid away for another winter's campaign, have been re

There came near being a serious accident here yesterday. Just as the passenger train came around the curve, near the smelter, at its usual rapid rate, a boy about 12 or 14 years of age ran to the switch and threw it so as to direct the train from the main track to the siding, which, being open, would have let the train off the rails just at the mouth of a ravine. A switchman saw the act just in time to throw the switch back before the train and its load of human freight swept by.
